City To Be Hdq. For Lake Area In Mutual Aid Plan

System To Include County Fire Departments Under Civil Defense Program

When an extensive Mutual Aid agreement among all fire departments in the county goes into operation soon, Belle Glade will serve as headquarters for the lake area in the new plan. Actually the agreement plan, patterned after that of New York City, will extend beyond the county limits stretching as far north as Okeechobee and Fort Myers and as far west as Clewiston.

Under the mutual aid plan equipment needed in an emergency in one area can be borrowed from another department where it is available immediately, according to Lawrence Whelan, fire chief in the city. Developed through the county Civil Defense Council under Col. E. F. Altman, the system will be used in any emergency such as hurricanes, bomb attacks, or conflagration. Ray Larabee, fire chief in West Palm Beach, has direct charge of the plan.

The two county headquarters will be in West Palm Beach and Belle Glade in the city hall. Belle Glade was selected due to communication facilities such as police radio, two fire stations and telephone in its central location in the lake region and the Everglades Fire Control headquarters here.

At a recent meeting of fire chiefs in West Palm Beach a committee was chosen to work out plan details. On the committee are: Ray Larabee, of West Palm Beach, chairman, Continued on page 4

February is the month of birthdays of great men. Ransking along with Lincoln and Washington is a local son, the Pangola Kid, formally known as O. G. McWhorter.

As in the case of birthdays of great men, a special celebration was in order for the kid. And his party was no slouch at all. In fact, the kid at the celebrations a very unusual type of cake decorated with beautiful flowers.

The cake was very flat and one could not discern the ingredients from the outside. So the piece of the delicacy and tumbled like he had never tasted anything like it. On Glades green pasture he was.

So rumors have spread and the size of the test piece which the kid sampled has grown to (Continued on Page Four)

YOU JUST DON'T MONKEY WITH WILD CHIMPANZEES

You just don't monkey with a wild chimpanzee, says Police Officer P. L. Higbee when explaining how he shot the one that went wild and broke loose at Nick Jones' Dude Ranch at Six Mile Bend Tuesday afternoon.

The chimpanzee, pet of the proprietor, escaped and caused ten frightened people to flee from the restaurant about 3:45 Tuesday afternoon. Jones attempted to grab the chain trailing from the animal's collar without success. Officer Higbee put an end to the $500 chimpanzee's escapades with a shot.

The chimpanzee will be mounted over the door, Jones says.

Braddocks Oppose City Purchase Of Land For Dockage

Committee Attempts Compromise With City, Corbin And Braddocks

When the City of Belle Glade's application to purchase for a nominal sum sovereignty lands lying south of the Terry Island. Property for public use as a dock site and park, Mr. Roscoe Lee Braddock and his mother objected at a regular meeting Tuesday.

The Braddock claim is based on the practice of the Board heretofore to sell to the high-land owner lands still held by the I. I. Board between the meander line and the water line in front of each ownership.

Mr. Braddock was supported in his contention by Governor Warren with no one else seconding, but a subtle motion that a Committee to attempt to compromise the entire proposition, between the City of Belle Glade, Corbin and the Braddocks.

The matter was brought to the attention of the Board through the application of Solie Corbin to purchase a fraction over two acres to include Solie's present home on the west and south of the Terry Island.

The contention of the City of Belle Glade is that the City badly needs the submerged land for public use, and that the land in question while desirable as an addition to the Braddock holdings, the spirit of the practice is following in selling Mr. Braddock the water lands lying between the meander line and the Island Road as well as that east of his deed lands.

Treasurer Larson was asked by the Board to meet with Corbin, the City and Braddock to work out some compromise, if possible. The meeting will be held in Miami on March 22 at 10:30 a. m. in the El Comodoro Hotel.

FOUR BRIDGES TO BE BUILT DURING CALENDAR YEAR 1951

B. Elliott received a telegram from L. P. Barber Thursday night announcing that in response to his request backed up by that of Governor Warren, the State Road Board has authorized the 1951 budget an amount of $352,000 for replacing bridges at Six Mile Bend, South Bay, Lake Harbor and Canal Point.

"Only in case of the National Emergency requirements forcing curtailment of necessary materials will the construction of these bridges be delayed beyond the immediate future—they will certainly be built this year," said Mr. Barber.

Speaker-designate Elliott and John Bollinger rode the State Causeway and Engineer through these bridges sometime ago and assured that they would be replaced. This action pin-points the actual construction.

It will be to record this action—some glory-seeking politician might claim credit for the work of our Tallahassee delegation.

"HOOVER DIKE" IS MAYO'S SUGGESTION FOR CHOBEE DIKE

Nathan Mayo was guest and recipient of honors in the form of a plaque bearing the inscription "To the veteran and useful Commissioner of Agriculture of Florida" at the dedication of a cable show ring in the Florida State Fairgrounds last week.

The orator of the occasion gave Mr. Mayo credit for a lot of things, among which is that of securing the dikes around Lake Okeechobee; but Mr. Mayo balked at accepting that honor.

"I believe," he said, "and I am going to recommend that those dikes and levees (around Lake Okeechobee) be named for Herbert Hoover."

Mr. Mayo wrote the ex-President that he is recommending this move to the State Board of Agriculture and feels that as an engineer and president, Mr. Hoover is due that credit.

Our only living ex-President is still active, though age is telling on him, and it is Mr. Mayo's purpose, I believe, to ask Mr. Hoover to visit the dike and accept the plaque and dedication at a formal exercise.

"Even though Mr. Hoover is a Republican, I believe," continued Mr. Mayo, "the people of Florida will join me in this recommendation." If you believe as does Mr. Mayo, how about writing him, or the President?

We're fur! We think the gentleman is more responsible for original work on the dikes than any other man.

C Of C Prepares City Souvenirs

Visitors at the Palm Beach County Exposition will get a lot of information about the area too.

The local chamber of commerce sent away this week for a number of items, more than match folders in which to include some of the "good cards" for distribution as souvenirs at the exposition.

"Black Gold" will be printed on the bags, according to R. E. Hotard, chamber president. The earth products will be attached to information folders about this section.

According to the recent report in the chamber of commerce membership drive, several Everglades Farms, Inc., F. M. Campbell and B. A. Russell Co., Inc. are most recent new members. The Florida National Bank and William Graber and Sons increased their membership.

The secretary urges those who have not yet made investments in the city directory, now under process, to turn in copy as soon as possible.

Glades Cabbage Bonanza Brings Highest Prices In Modern Florida History

Glades Growers Might Make Thousands On Present High Market

This is the story of cabbages and kings, and it's happening here.

Although the cabbage bonanza here will probably make few millionaires, it will help a number of growers scattered over approximately 6,000 acres of the produce planted between Canal Point and Clewiston into the upper thousands.

The cabbage market phenomenon started here about a week ago and reached a peak last weekend when the produce sold for the highest prices it has ever brought in the history of modern Florida. Cabbage sold for $8 a crate but with one car loading brought $8.80 a crate. The prevailing prices mark a considerable rise over the usual $1.25 to $1.50 price.

"One man's luck is another's misfortune in this business," said a grower here. "The present cabbage market is directly traceable to freezes in the Rio Grand Valley and north Florida."

Growers usually consider $2 to $2.50 very good prices for the cheaply grown vegetable sold here at cost of about $75 to $100 an acre.

And retail grocers and house wives are feeling the direct reflection of the inflation. Cabbage heads have soared to the blue blood menu ranking with imported salmon and caviar. Corn beef and cabbage will not only be fit for kings but will be eaten only by them if prices stay steady.

Dr. Eugene Erny, president of the Oriental Missionary Society, will speak at the Community Methodist Church Sunday morning at the 11 o'clock service. The public is invited.

Dr. Erny has a record of nine years missionary work in India and nine years in China.

RADAR FOR HURRICANE SPOTTING CONSIDERED FOR USE OF FH PATROL

Col. Kirkman of the Florida Highway Patrol presented to the Cabinet Tuesday a request for funds with which to set up under the Highway Patrol a system of radar stations for the purpose of finding and tracking hurricanes.

Secretary of State Gray informed the Cabinet that Dean Well of the Engineering College of the University is strongly recommending this project.

Despite its desire to economize on funds available to the Cabinet members were impressed by this appeal and have asked Dean Well to appear before them at the next meeting for the purpose of giving them more details.

It could do no harm to invite the U. S. Weather Bureau, High Brass to attend this meeting—maybe they will become convinced that South Florida needs more of these stations. The population in the Glades certainly is in favor of this move.

IT'S IN THE LIVING

It takes a big volume of living and just a small pamphlet of words to make brotherhood a reality in Belle Glade or any where.

And it takes a lot of facts to make theories of brotherhood and understanding real.

Although brotherhood between religions and races is often wrapped in a lot of high hollow sounds, some of the facts in this community make it seem real at least to an extent.

The beginning of National Brotherhood Week this Sunday will mark the conclusion of an interdenominational project in this community entered into by about six different churches.

A religious census, covering the community to determine religious preferences and other facts of the populace has been conducted here for the benefit of all religious sects represented in the community.

Rev. Wade H. Griffin explains that census cards will be divided up among churches according to preferences stated on them. The churches will be free to use the material as they wish. So here we see people of different religious doctrines working as a whole.

In the face of our national tradition, prejudice, hatred and intolerance are completely alien to the real American character. They have cropped out at numerous times and doubtless will be appearing again. But they are a minority sentiment, a grating discordant note in the prevailing harmony of the American theme.

No where else in the world should it be easier to live brotherhood than in the nation that is founded on the essence of it. At times the work of it has been slow, but at no time has the power of it ever been lost. At an hour in the world's history when freedom and democracy are challenged by the denial and the slavery of totalitarianism it behooves every American to stand up and be counted in the living of the brotherhood which he preaches.

The real test of brotherhood for any person is the simple question, How am I living it? What, if anything, does it mean in my daily business and contacts with others? Is it merely a fine sounding word or a way of life?

At Anzio and Okinawa, and Incheon and Taejeon—no soldier asked of his comrade on right or left: "Are you Catholic or Baptist, Jew or Episcopalian?"

And when those of the nation listen to the lines of "Mammy" sung by a man now dead—Al Jolson—they do not ask, "Was this man a Jew?"

this hemisphere. Scientists have long recognized that there is much greater resistance to diseases and insects in the area of longest association between crops and their enemies.

In 1945 a branch State College was established in Guatemala. This was the first such technological establishment made from the United States in a foreign country for a purpose of this type. The main interest of the Research Center was to be corn, especially since Iowa State College is so near the center of the U. S. Corn Belt. But, the interest of the Center is not limited to corn, and any plant which can be used in Iowa is a potential subject for study.

The Center is so situated in Guatemala, according to Dr. Melhus, that any climate needed for research is within 15 minutes "on an hour's drive. One needs only to change elevations to obtain desired temperature, and varied rainfall conditions are within a few miles of the Center.

With respect to the corn breeding work, the Center has been able to generally classify the indigenous corns into four broad groups. One group grows well in the higher elevations, ranging from about 7,000 to 10,000 feet, and is called the mountain group. Another, growing in the range from about 4,000 to 7,000 feet, makes a plant from 16 to 20 feet tall, and is tagged as gigantea. A third group, growing from sea level up to 4,000 feet is termed coastal corn. The fourth group, classified as dwarf, carried a reputation locally as 48-day corn, which both amazed and intrigued the workers assigned to the Center who had been accustomed to at least 90-day growth for corn. Upon investigation, however, they found that the 40 days actually had reference to the length of time from the pollen stage to maturity.

Considerable research is also being carried on with many of the diseases of corn. The giantum group as a whole is considered to have quite a bit of resistance to helminthophorous leaf blight and is being investigated intensively.

Dr. Melhus outlined briefly other vegetable crop research underway at the Center, including beans which comprises a large portion of the diet for the natives.

At the close of the meeting, he asked questions of various staff members with regard to research in fiber crops, especially kenaf, and expressed interest in establishing a project with fibers at the Center.

Both Dr. Melhus and Crow have assisted the Everglades Station in their corn breeding work, and have supplied many new lines of corn for test under Everglades conditions, some of which contain Guatemalan strains.
